Billie eilish sad songs playlist

Billie Eilish revealed in a recent speech that someone once told her there were no hits on her Grammy-nominated album. When We All Fall Asleep, Where Are We Going? When we were working on the album, someone told me and my brother Finneas, who is my cowriter, that there was no hit on the album, eilish said, adding: I don't know how it was supposed to help anyone, but that fool was wrong! The 17-year-old singer was accepting the award at The Hitmakers Brunch Variety in Hollywood on Saturday, but said she had no intention of making a hit song or album. I never wanted to make a hit, and it's crazy that you can make one without meaning, Eilish said in his speech. Eilish also seemingly referred to the recent fallout around her lack of musical knowledge when she thanked Variety for not wanting me to look stupid like everyone else she wants to do on TV. When We All Fall Asleep, Where Do We Go? was a critical and commercial success when it was first released in March this year. It topped the Billboard 200 chart for several weeks, and even spawned the number one single, Bad Guy. Eilish's debut album was nominated for two Grammy Awards in 2020: best pop vocal album and album of the year. Eilish is also up for Best New Artist, and her song Bad Guy scored her nominations for record of the year, song of the year, and best pop solo performance. Do you think the world can handle two Eilishes? While we only have one extremely talented singer-songwriter, Billie Eilish actually has a brother who makes waves of his own in the music world. It's been a long time since we've had a dynamic brother-sister writing and production team dropping single after single, so now that these two songs are getting Grammy attention, it's time to get to know Eilish's brother Finneas O'Connell. O'Connell is four years older than Eilish, arriving at 22-years-old (and I'm sorry if that makes you feel super old now). But while Eilish is currently a household name, we actually have known O'Connell longer than she has. O'Connell played Alistair during the final season of Glee in 2015 and also appeared in Modern Family as Ronnie Jr. and 2011's Bad Teacher as Spencer. You may also have heard him in Fallout 4 as Liam. While he hasn't had any major acting credits for the past few years, there's always a chance he might return to it – that is, if it's not super busy writing and producing his own music, along with songs for Eilish and other major recording artists. Along with Eilish, the two have more than 30 tracks (and counting) together, with O'Connell serving as writer and producer. If that's not enough, it was also recently announced that Eilish is set to do the latest James Bond theme for No Time To Die, and she co-wrote the still-untitled song alongside O'Connell. Writing a theme song for a Bond movie is something we've dreamed of doing all our lives, O'Connell explained in a statement after the news. Exists an iconic pairing of music and cinematography than goldfinger and live and let die. We feel so, so lucky to play a small part in such a legendary franchise, long live 007. It's going to be a pretty tough top writing Bond movie theme, but from the perspective of their careers, it's something that O'Connell and Eilish are definitely doing (especially considering the record for artists winning both Grammys and Oscars for their Bond themes). And O'Connell's not just working with his sister, he's working with a handful of other artists you've heard. Do you know Selena Gomez's last song, Lose You to Love Me? O'Connell produced that along with Camila Cabello's The First Man and Used to This (he also co-wrote the second). If that's not enough, he also co-wrote and produced Halsey's I Hate Everyone from her latest album Manic. At the 2020 Grammys, O'Connell is nominated for five awards, including Record of the Year, Album of the Year and Producer of the Year. Even if he doesn't end up on stage on Sunday, be prepared to hear O'Connell's name and music in the future. Was I stupid to love you?/Was I reckless to help?/Was it clear to everyone else?/That I fell in love with a lie/You were never on my side, sings Eilish. Fool me once, fool me twice / How dare paradise / Now you will never see me cry again / There is simply no time to die. It's crazy to be a part of it in every way. To be able to score a theme song for a movie that is part of such a legendary series is a huge honor. James Bond is the best movie franchise that ever existed. I'm still in shock,' Eilish said of the honor in a press release. Her brother and producer FINNEAS added: 'Writing a bond theme song is something we've dreamed of all our lives. There is no more iconic pairing of music and cinema than goldfinger and live and let die. We feel so lucky to play a small part in such a legendary franchise, long live 007. Twitter couldn't say enough about the new, spooky track – and many think that Eilish will score an Oscar for it coming 2021. Sorry, I'm just going to listen to Billie Eilish's bond theme until I fall asleep-Rhys Evans (@Rhyssssss) February 14, 2020 Omg, it gave me a zimnicel I can't wait to see a new movie. I've officially added it to my playlists on every platform. The notes!!!! @FriesianCow (@FrankieDeverett) February 14, 2020 Eilish, the youngest artist to work on a song for a spy thriller series, could very well be on his way to an Oscar. In 2016, Sam Smith won the Oscar for Best Original Song for Writing's On the Wall from the Bond film Spectre. Adele also won an Oscar in 2012 for her song Skyfall, from the film of the same name soundtrack.ok, so Billie Eilish will win an Oscar next year #NoTimeToDie -> mun river (you can call me Wesh la merveille) (@mundari_kore) February 14, 2020 Congratulations to the future Oscar winner next year, Billie Eilish. - Kidz Bop C February 14, 2020 billie eilish Oscar winner- L 𐄂 (@stanfluurd) February 14, 2020 Awards season party isn't over for music wunderkind Billie Eilish yet. Fresh from becoming the youngest artist ever to smym up all four major categories at the Grammys, the 18-year-old will take the stage at the Oscars on February 9. But the reason Eilish is performing at the Oscars remains a mystery for now. In general, there are two types of musical performances at the Oscars: a live rendition of songs nominated in the Original Song category and an In Memoriam tribute. Eilish doesn't have a nomination this year, so it's possible she could sing as the video In Memoriam plays. Or she could do something completely different, because she's not the only artist to perform a special show at the ceremony. On February 4, the academy announced that Harriet star Janelle Monáe would also perform - but again there is no word on what she will play or why. Despite the mystery surrounding her performance at the Oscars, it's no wonder the Academy invited Eilish to attend the ceremony after her historic night at the Grammys. In 2019, Album of the Year winner Kacey Musgraves was asked to introduce Gillian Welch and David Rawlings before playing their nominee for best original song When a Cowboy Trades His Spurs for Wings. Meanwhile, Eilish not only won Album of the Year, she also took home awards for Best Pop Vocal Album, Song of the Year, and Best New Artist – and there's a good chance she'll be nominated for an Oscar herself in 2021. In January, it was announced that Eilish would become the youngest singer to ever write and perform a James Bond theme. The Bad Guy singer and her brother Finneas O'Connell have co-written theme for No Time to Die, Daniel Craig's latest Bond film, which is set to hit theaters on April 10. Given how close the film's premiere date is, it's possible that Eilish will debut a highly anticipated song at the Oscars. Finneas added to the speculation during his February 3 appearance on The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon when he said the new Bond theme would premiere really soon, really soon. For now, Eilish and the Academy are silent about what the four-time Grammy Award winner will do at the Oscars. But there is no doubt that what will bring her to the stage will be worth waiting for the fans of the artist. When the party is over the singer has proven to be a glamorous performer, so it's no surprise that the Oscars recruited her to do a bit of Eilish magic on Hollywood's biggest night. Why?! Eilish exclaimed on stage when she came to accept the award. So many other songs deserve it, I'm sorry. Thank you so much, this is my first Grammy, I never thought something like this would happen in my life. Eilish went on to introduce O'Connell, her brother and best friend, before being serious about what the Grammy win meant to her. I feel like I around a lot and I never take anything seriously on these things, but I really want to say that I'm grateful, and I just want to say that I'm grateful,' she said. In addition to earning six Grammy nominations this year, Eilish became the youngest person ever to record a theme song for a James Bond movie. The honor means that Eilish could potentially be up for best original song Oscar, just as Sam Smith scored an Oscar for Writing on the Wall from the Bond film Spectre. It's crazy to be a part of it in every way. To be able to score a theme song for a movie that is part of such a legendary series is a huge honor. James Bond is the best movie franchise that ever existed. I'm still in shock,' Eilish told The Hollywood Reporter of the honor. Honor.
